FOREWORD

THIS day, fellow pupils, has brought an end to the long-continued silence which we have kept for four years — not through lack of material, but for want of courage to undertake so stupendous a task and to expose ourselves to the critical eye of the public; and, in like manner, a renewal of our former custom of saying what we thought and what we wished. However, we greatly fear that this book, although bearing the same name as those of former years, may not be as worthy of it. But it is our best, so try to be optimistic and as lenient as possible as we present the PHI ANNUAL for the year 1910.

CLASSES

SENIOR EDITORIAL

WHEN we arrived here four years ago, we were considered, as usual, one of the greenest classes that ever entered the school. For three years we have worked steadily, silently, until we have blossomed out into positively the finest class that was ever graduated — a fact very unusual.

In athletics, we have done wonders. Captain Connell, of the track team, has never been beaten in the three hundred yard dash, and has established a record which will not be broken for a long time. At football, we showed our strength by holding the captaincy our Junior year.

In the school itself, we have kept up a record of equal high standing. Even Daniel Webster would have to give way to the arguments and knowledge of Redman, and Hercules would not have the strength to hold a match after seeing the marvellous feats (feet) of "Mutt" Whiting. Helen of Troy would hide her face in shame after seeing some of our fair demoiselles. Napoleon would undoubtedly suffer defeat in battle against such a colonel as Chet. Wheeler. ¶ These are only a few illustrations; but they are such as show that, as I said before, we are the most proficient graduating class in the history of the Lowell High School.

JUNIOR EDITORIAL

YES, we'll admit that 1910 is an extraordinarily fine class; but it isn't in it with us Juniors. With our professional sharks, Knowlton, Tibbetts, Dodge, and Morse, it's mighty lucky for the 1910 Carney medal aspirants that they didn't come a year later. With our runners, Lane and Crandall, and with Teeson in the high jump — notice how he with true '11 spirit lets Chuck beat at about five feet eight — we could win a whole meet by ourselves; but we let the others make their L's. Again, in football we lead — why, with Young as third sub quarter back and Meigs, who, in some way, came to be assistant manager, we could run the whole thing if we chose, — but there, again, our excellent character appears, and even the Seniors take some part in the management. In baseball, Ralph Lane shines again, as well as Donovan, but, as we care comparatively little for this as a rule, we generally leave it for the school. Last, but not least by any means, in speaking of the different teams, I must mention the "Little Highland Scrappers," wholly composed of Junior girls, who, on this account positively have not lost a single meet. If we excel in all these things, why do I need to dwell longer on the merits of this Junior class? I might as well stop first as last—as there is no end at all. ¶ So look on the next few pages and see the class from A to Z.

SOPHOMORE EDITORIAL

AFTER hearing the perfectly written tales of the high and mighty Seniors and Juniors, you, perhaps, will deign to consider the meek (?) Sophomores. It is also with fear and trembling that we, on account of our lack of years and insufficiency of knowledge, attempt to make any statement about ourselves; but we have finally entered a sort of plea, which, it is hoped will win over the hearts of the cold public. In the first place, we hear that we are considered "insignificant"; but think of Leggatt, Frazer, Coggeswell, and Brown. What other athletes can make a better showing than these? Then, it is said that we are "unruly"; but what other scholar admires his teachers more than, for instance, Butt Goodell? Again, we are accused of "understudy." This, too, is false, as is shown by the reports of us all. Lastly, and sad to relate, we are considered "fresh!" This surely is a serious charge. We are not prepared to meet it; but, as our honor must be saved, our one and only plea is to — think of Kerwin.

FRESHMAN EDITORIAL

WHAT did you say? You want me to show you Miss Cassidy's room? Why, who do you see straight ahead? Don't know? Well, that's Miss Cassidy herself. Don't want her? What do you want then; just to get your bearings? No; want to find the bunch, do you? What bunch is that? Who are all these — Reilly, Meigs, Safford, Sturgess, and Whidden? Freshman, are they? Why, I thought they went to the school across the street.

Oh, by the way! I believe I saw that "bunch" playing tag out in the yard. If they're not there, you'll probably find them studying up in Mr. Dennett's room.

PRESENTED WITH MEDALS

(Victor E. Walls, at his retirement, left a legacy, the income of which was to be used for medals to be presented annually to the six who should best carry on his favorite occupation. These six of the year 1910 we take pleasure in announcing.)

FRENCH LEIGHTON
For holding his own against the Bequestor.

HARRY BROWN
For his ability to attend the largest number of girls at the same time.

MAJOR MATHER
For keeping his (?) major's pin.

"BUB" JACKSON
For treading the path to Centralville.

"HILLY" MEIGS
For his early start.

CHET DRURY
For his noble attempts.

ATHLETICS

ATHLETICS EDITORIAL

WITH the exception of both girls' and boys' basketball, which has been dropped from the school, this season has been a most successful one for all athletic teams.

Beginning with last year's baseball team, no one will forget that we beat Waltham eight to nothing, nor how, when Lawrence was five to our nothing in the first part of the ninth inning, we won in the last of the ninth with a score of six to five.

In football, although the team was beaten by Lawrence — and it must be remembered that this year Lawrence had one of the strongest teams of the state — it did itself great credit by either beating or tying all of the big Boston teams it played and in scoring upon Waltham.

Our track team this year was the best ever. After beating Brookline and Boston College, and making the fastest time of all the relay teams at the B. A. A., with the exception of those of the two academies, Andover and Exeter, no individual team could be induced to meet us, but when we sent a challenge to the combined forces of the two Cambridge schools and Rindge Manual and beat them, that settled it ; no more meets could be arranged. So, although the end of the season was rather disappointing, it was really the most creditable one possible.

KNOCKS

KNOCKS

THE REGIMENT

To the boy who heads the column,
Beating the big bass drum.
To the boy on the left of Company H,
Who carries a wooden gun.

To the boy who means to be Colonel
And does his work like a man ;
To the boy who does not like the drill
And shirks it when he can.

To the boy whose physical weakness
Will not permit him to drill,
But plays next day on the football team
And smashes the line at will.

To the boy who starts with his right foot first,
And wheels about on his toes ;
To the boy who wins the medals
For his skill and grace and pose.

To the Officers, striped and braided,
On place and honors bent,
With relative rank all figured out
To the tenth of one per cent.

To the good the drill has done us,
To the good pleasant hours we've spent,
To the rank and file, to the line and staff,
To the luck of the REGIMENT.

MALUM OPUS

Prope ripam fluvii solus
A senex silently sat,
Super caput ecce his wig,
Et wig super ecce his hat.

Blew Zephyrus alte acerbus,
Dum elderly gentleman sat,
Et a capite took up quite torve
Et in rivum projecit his hat

Tunc soft maledixit the old man
Tunc stooped from the bank where he sat
Et cum scipio poked in the water
Conatus servare his hat

Blew Zephyrus alte acerbus
The moment it saw him at that ;
Et whisked his novum scratch wig
In flumen, along with his hat.

Ab imo pectore damnavit
In caeruleum dolor sat ;
Tunc despairingly threw in his cane
Nare cum his wig and his hat.

MORAL

Contra bonos mores, don't swear,
It est wicked you know (verbum sat)
Si this tale habet no other moral,
Mehercule ; you're gratus to that.

A TOAST

Here's to the teachers whose lessons
We never were anxious to get.
We'll give them credit for virtues they hid,
We'll try their faults to forget.

To the boys and girls we chum with
In study and work and fun,
The lessons we teach each other
Will grow as the years shall run.

Here's to the school: she helped us
To make ourselves women and men.
We love her. We'll guard and defend her
For ever and ever, Amen.

A FEW BOOKS BY LOCAL AUTHORS.

"The best way to use a trot." Sully
"Various kinds of hair." Woodward
"What it means to be popular." Kerwin
"Advice concerning the ways of girls." Ellingwood
"What I shall do at college." Bartlett
"My jokes." Bunny
"Self defence" Gargan
"Blondes" Woodward
"The Faculty." Rooney

We were very sorry to hear that Ellingwood has left school. But it is for his own good as he is going to the Conservatory of Music where he will try to learn how to sing, and if he has any success (doubtless) he will come to Lowell to sing at the Theatre Voyons, where his friends can hear him sing all the popular songs of the day.

QUOTATIONS

"None but the brave deserve the fair." Lavigueur

"She moves a goddess, and she looks a queen." Beulah Sturtevant

"For thy sake, tobacco, I would do anything but die." Mather

"Soprano, basso, even the contralto
Wished him five fathoms under the Rialto." Leggat

"'Tis better to have loved and lost
Than never to have loved at all." Hockmeyer

"And since, I never dare to write
As funny as I can." Redman

"She's all my fancy painted her,
She's lovely, she's divine." Helen Mitchell

"It is better to learn late than never." Mc Millan

"Better be ignorant of a matter than know half of it." Sullivan

"Not lost, but gone before." Walls

A TESTIMONIAL

Messrs. D. C. Heath & Co., Publishers,
Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:-

I take great pleasure (?) in saying that I used your Algebra my Freshman year in Lowell High School and have used it ever since.

?'s Oration against Bunny.

When, O Teacher, do you mean to cease abusing our patience ? How long are those lessons of yours still to mock us ? When is there to be an end to this cramming us, or to what end will it lead us ? Will neither our nightly virgils over our books, nor our pleading hearts, nor our bloodshot eyes, nor our good work in the class room move you in any way ? Do you not see that it is doing us no good ? Do not the looks and contenances of everyone here present plainly show you that we are hopelessly ignorant of what went on in class yesterday, the day before yesterday or even the day before that?''
